

OFFICIAL ELYRION NOTICE

On Cosmic Disclosure, Discernment, and the Sovereignty of Human Consciousness

From Krya Ra El, Founder of the Elyrion Initiative

As conversations around extraterrestrial life, disclosure, false-flag scenarios, interstellar civilization, and nonhuman intelligence continue to rise, Elyrion offers this notice as a call to clarity.

This is not a call to fear.

This is not a call to blind belief.

This is not a call to reject the possibility of cosmic intelligence.

This is a call to discernment.

Humanity is entering a phase where our relationship with the cosmos, consciousness, technology, and authority may become increasingly entangled. In such a time, the first responsibility is not panic. The first responsibility is maturity.

If cosmic narratives intensify, observe not only the story being told, but the structure being built around it.

Does it lead toward greater freedom, exploration, coherence, and inner sovereignty?

Or does it lead toward increased surveillance, fear, dependency, obedience, and centralized control — even if dressed in advanced language, spiritual terminology, or futuristic promises?

Elyrion does not frame this as simple good versus bad.

The deeper question is one of natural unfolding versus coercion and control.

A truly mature being on or off planet does not require worship.

A truly mature guide does not erase discernment.

A truly aligned contact does not need to govern humanity through fear.

A truly advanced civilization does not confuse technological power with spiritual maturity.

Humanity's natural evolution should not be hijacked, rushed, branded, or forced through fear-based systems of control.

We encourage all people to remain open, but not gullible. Grounded, but not closed. Curious, but not dependent. Loving, but not naïve. Intelligent, but not arrogant.

The future of humanity must be met through clear consciousness, ethical maturity, emotional stability, and sovereign discernment.

The sky may open in many ways. Do your best to be curious, calm, clear, grounded & centered within your own life force.
